

I think the no call list should stay as it is. there is no reason that anyones evening should need to be interrupted with these type of calls.